

New approaches to assessing the impact of social science research

12-13th May 2005
Grafton Hotel, London

An International Symposium to be hosted by the Economic and Social Research Council aimed at Researchers, Policy Makers and Practitioners in the Public and the Private Sector

The Symposium will provide an opportunity to share approaches and discuss current international developments in demonstrating and assessing the impact of social science research.

Chair

Dr Phil Davies
Cabinet Office

Plenary Speakers

Merete Konnerup

Director of the Nordic Campbell Centre

Dr Jonathan Lomas

Director of the Canadian Health Services Foundation

Dr Geoff Mulgan

Director of the Institute for Community Studies

Professor Sandra Nutley

Director of the ESRC Research Unit for Research Utilisation

Professor Harry Scarbrough

Director of the ESRC Evolution of Business Knowledge Programme

Professor Nigel Waite

Executive Director – The Financial Services Research Forum

Programme

12th May 1.30pm onwards

The first day of the symposium will begin with an introduction by Professor Ian Diamond, Chief Executive, ESRC

This will be followed by a series of presentations given by our speakers, which will provide perspectives on assessing impact from academia, the public and the private sectors.

13th May 9.30am onwards

The second day of the symposium will involve a series of workshops to discuss key issues in assessing impact.

The symposium will close with a final plenary session and conclusions of the main findings.

13th May 1.30pm - close

Venue

Radisson Edwardian Grafton Hotel
130 Tottenham Court Road
London
W1P 9HP

www.radisson.com/londonuk_grafton

Further details from:

Ronni Littlewood
Senior Evaluation Officer
ESRC

+44 (0) 1793 413141

Veronica.littlewood@esrc.ac.uk